

Public Owned Parks in the Greater Miami Area

Description: Sea level rise and flooding represent a serious threat to the Miami area. A form of built infrastructure that can act as a barrier to the increasing climatic threat would be existing park areas. This map highlights parks that are under jurisdiction from the National, County and City level entities. As currently constructed, there are very few park barriers, especially within the urbanized area of Miami.